

Cookie Policy

New Breed w uses a feature of your Web browser called a "cookie" -- a file that your browser places on your computer's hard drive to uniquely identify your computer. New Breed w creates and then uses cookies to make log-in more convenient on the NBw Website, to tell us whether you have previously visited the NBw Website, to track your clicks through the website, and to help us determine whether you came to New Breed w from a particular Internet link or advertisement. Cookies can also be used to save and retrieve passwords and to save information on past usage of features and other preferences. New Breed w does not and cannot use cookies to retrieve Personal Information about you from your computer unless such information was knowingly and willingly provided by you.

Some of our business partners, subcontractors, affiliates, and advertisers may use cookies through the NBw Website to track the success of our or their advertising and marketing efforts, which is standard practice for many of the websites you may visit. If you wish to restrict how cookies are placed on your computer, please check your browser settings, or check your browser's "Help" information for instructions on how to enhance the security of your browser or limit use of and access to cookies. Please note that your browser's security settings may disable some features or services on certain websites.

Similarly, New Breed w, its advertisers, subcontractors, and other partners may also use "web beacons" (small image files which are used to track presence on web pages and surfing patterns) in a similar fashion to cookies, except that web beacons do not store any personal information on your computer. We may also use web beacons or similar technology to track clicks from our newsletters and the like.

Finally, servers owned or controlled by New Breed w will log each website visitors' IP address, browser type, operating system, referring and exiting URLs, and other statistical and technical information. Except for user policy, agreement, and law enforcement purposes, New Breed w will treat this as Anonymous Information.

Posted Information and Use of Community Features

Although it is probably obvious, to the extent you submit or post any content to the NBw Website (or any material which by its nature appears to be intended to be published or posted) or participate in any interactive, discussion, blog, forum, or community feature on the NBw Website, all of the information contained in your submission or communications will likely become published public information on the NBw Website and possibly published by our affiliates or partners, and New Breed w will not have any control over the use of such information by users and third parties with access to that information. New Breed w reserves the right to edit or use all of such information at its discretion without restriction.

Additional privacy policies and other terms may apply to use of any community or interactive feature or service available through the NBw Website or otherwise provided by New Breed w. Please check the pages containing those features and services for more information.